

2012-2013

1st Semester Exam Schedule

As this is an exam week, the starting times for most classes have changed. Please adjust your calendar as appropriate. Exams have been allocated 90 minutes.

The inclusion of seminar at the end of the exam week allows for lab or test make-up during the school day. Additionally, class advisors or counselors are free to use the time to meet with students for second semester planning or discussion (with those students who are caught up with their semester work).

“The purpose of the class meetings in the afternoons during the first three days of the examination schedule is to provide students with a structured study time, under the direction of the teacher. This could be an opportunity for entire class review, tutorials, group learning, or alternative study strategies. It is not designed as a time to present new information or to be a regular class period.”
